The Costs of Dental Care

Unquestionably, there are many financial considerations that have deferred necessary dental health care. There are often many other priorities that may stand in the way of a patient's desire for a healthy mouth and a brilliant smile. Unfortunately, the delaying of necessary treatment usually results in treatment options that are only more costly. There are few alternatives to preventive dental care.

After less than a year's neglect, tooth decay that may be easily be managed by a conservative filling, will often lead to the need for root canal therapy and a crown, resulting in increased costs and less conservative treatment.

Quality dentistry is an investment in one's personal health and future well-being. Early detection and treatment will yield invaluable returns. With a commitment to periodic dental exams and treatment, as well as appropriate daily dental hygiene practices, a lifetime of healthy and a beautiful teeth is a realistic and attainable goal.

Financial Arrangements & Insurance

In an effort to help our patients attain their goals, our office accept checks, cash and all major credit cards. Special arrangements have been made with financial institutions and our office to help you pay for and budget treatment plans. We participate with many insurance and managed care health plans and we will gladly help you electronically process your insurance through our computers for quick reimbursement. Most insurances are accepted as assignment towards the total cost of your care, and our years of experience working with all major insurance carriers and union plans will maximize your benefits while simultaneously minimizing your out of pocket expense. As an added convenience, our office also participates with the CareCredit healthcare financing program.

{xtypo_info}Some employers, in conjunction with their employees, will set up special pre-tax dollar medical and dental expense accounts (FLEX Spending Account) to pay for all dental treatment you need or desire, including cosmetic procedures. You should check this option out with your employer because it can mean substantial savings for you. {/xtypo_info}

{xtypo_warning}We do not participate in insurance plans that limit the quality of dental care you expect and deserve. {/xtypo_warning}
